TOO MUCH CASH USED IN ELECTION

Representative Catlin of Missouri May Lose Seat.

MAY BE OUSTED BY COMMITTEE

Election of Young Man, Who Is a Striking Figure in Washington, Will Be Investigated—It Is Alleged That Father, a Millionaire, Spent More Money on Election Than Law Allows.

Washington, July 19.—Representative Theron E. Catlin of Missouri, whose engagement to marry Miss Laura Beatrice Merriam, daughter of W. R. Merriam, formerly governor of Minnesota, was announced recently, is likely to lose his seat in the house. The committee on elections, which recently has completed an investigation of a contest brought against the election of Mr. Catlin by Patrick F. Gill, is expected to recommend his unseating.

Mr. Catlin is a Republican. He received a majority of about 13,000 votes over Mr. Gill, a Democrat who formerly was the representative from the Eleventh district of Missouri.

The charge was made by Mr. Gill that more than $10,000 was spent in the election of Mr. Catlin, with the candidate's knowledge, notwithstanding the fact that the law of Missouri limited him to an expenditure of $650. There is a federal corrupt practices act limiting the expenditure of candidates to congress to $5,000, but it expressly stipulates that the state law shall apply where a state has seen fit to deal with the question.

Father Is Millionaire.

Representative Catlin is a graduate of Harvard college and law school. He served one term as a member of the Missouri legislature. His father, Daniel Catlin, was at one time a manufacturer of tobacco and was known as the "tobacco king" of the West. He sold out to the American Tobacco company and is now worth several million dollers.

The story goes that the elder Catlin, desiring to get him interested in something, finally hit upon a congressional career for him. The testimony in the case shows that the father did spend $10,500 toward the young man's election but it is asserted by all of the members of the family that Theron did not know what his father was doing.

The sworn statement of Representative Catlin shows that he spent personally only $550 in his campaign. The Democratic members of the committee on elections of the house hold that Representative Catlin must have known of the expenditure of more than the legal amount by his father, and that as the contribution was made by the Catlin family the law was violated at least in spirit.

Representative Catlin is one of the most striking figures in the house. He stands six feet four inches in his stocking feet and has a good presence in debate. Whatever action the house committee takes in his case is almost certain to be sustained by the Democratic majority in the house.

WOMAN TAKES PART BLMEA

Admits Misunderstanding Telephone Message.

Chicago, July 19.—Mrs. Julia A. Wilcox, who was on duty in the signal tower at Western Springs last Sunday when a fast mail train crashed into the rear of the Overland Express of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, killing thirteen persons and injuring more than a score, admitted, while testifying at the coroner's inquest, that a misunderstanding over a telephone message might in part have been responsible for the wreck.

She said she received a message from Congress Park just prior to the accident. She understood it to mean for her to hold Passenger train No. 4 until a freight train had finished switching ahead. She tried to stop No. 4, but said it had passed the signals. Then it developed, she said, that the person who telephoned merely wanted her to inform Congress Park when train No. 4 passed the tower.

LOOKS FOR AN ACQUITTAL

Mrs. Morrow Expects Jury Will Acquit Her of Murder Charge.

Chicago, July 19.—Closing arguments were begun in the case of Mrs. Rene B. Morrow, whose prominence in women's clubs has attracted wide attention to her trial on a charge of having shot her husband to death on the porch of the Morrow home, last December.

Mrs. Morrow seemed hopeful of acquittal, on the ground that Morrow was either murdered by a burglar or committed suicide.

One Killed in Auto Capsize.

Glenwood City, Wis., July 19.—James O'Rourke, Downing, Wis., was killed when an automobile in which he and two Glenwood City companions were riding turned turtle. The other passengers were only slightly injured. O'Rourke was crushed to death. He was about thirty years old and the son of a pioneer resident of Downing.

SAYS BOSS RULE PREDOMINATED

Colonel Asserts Wilson Was Nominated by Party Bosses.

COMPARES TWO CONVENTIONS

Makes Statement That Democratic Bosses Were Willing to Name Any of Candidates to Get Party Victory While Republican Leaders Only Wanted to Defeat Him.

New York, July 19.—The Republican and the Democratic national conventions are discussed by Theodore Roosevelt in editorial articles in the current issue of the Outlook. In one the writer answers charges that "steam roller" methods were used to nominate him in 1904 and Mr. Taft in 1908.

"There was no contest in the convention over my nomination in 1904," he says. "Every delegate was for me. In 1908, when Mr. Taft was fairly nominated, there were no 'steam roller' methods, as far as I know, if anything dishonest was done in the effort to nominate him it was without my knowledge."

In the second article the colonel alludes to "the respectable men who, with discomfort, stood behind their leaders in securing the triumph of fraud and political theft at Chicago." and scores the "other respectable men who felt no discomfort in thus supporting rascality."

In contrasting the two conventions Colonel Roosevelt writes:

"There was one instructive difference between the attitude of the Republican bosses at Chicago and the Democratic bosses at Baltimore. The former greatly preferred certain party defeat to my nomination; the latter were willing to accept any nomination rather than face certain party defeat. This difference in the attitude of the bosses was due to the far-reaching difference betwen the anti-boss movements in the two cases.

Bosses Nominated Wilson.

"In the Democratic primaries Mr. Clark had carried more states than Governor Wilson. He had a large majority in the popular vote. In but one or two states had Governor Wilson's cause ben triumphant in a square fight with the bosses—indeed there had hardly been any fight made along these lines.

"The fight at Baltimore was not, as at Chicago, to eliminate the bosses, and incidentally, to nominate a certain candidate; it was to persuade the bosses into themselves nominating Dr. Wilson, thus securing the perpetuation of their own control in their several states, Mr. Sullivan of Illinois, Mr. Taggart of Indiana, and others like them, brought about Dr. Wilson's nomination; Mr. Murphy acquiesced at the end. Dr. Wilson's victory would not mean the dethronement of these men; it would mean their perpetuation in power My election would mean that Mr. Penrose, Mr. Barnes and Mr. Guggenheim would be definitely eliminated from political control of their states."

In his second article Colonel Roosevelt declares that in addition to the professional politicians who oppose him, and to the respectable support that comes from individuals who are misinformed, he is opposed by a body of respectable men who are purely selfish in so doing.

KILLED ON WAY TO PICNIC

Train Crashes Into Auto Killing Three Girls.

Cambridge, Ia., July 19.—Two girls were killed outright, a third was mortally injured, dying later, and the driver of their automobile seriously injured when an eastbround St. Paul train struck an automobile carrying four young girls to a Sunday school picnic near here.

The dead are: Iowa Maywald, fifteen years; Erma Ferguson, fourteen years; Helen Johnson, eighteen years.

Herman Maywald, eighteen years old, the driver of the car, is expected to die.

FIXES PRICE OF TICKETS

Committee Plans to Meet Expenses of Chicago Convention.

Chicago, July 19.—Members of the local committe on arrangements decided to hold the Progressive party's national convention at the Coliseum Aug. 5, instead of the Auditorium, the place first selected.

The change was made in order to provide more seats for spectators.

The committee also decided that the expenses of the convention would be met by the sale of tickets to spectators. The prices for tickets entitling the holder to attend every session of the convention will be $10, $15 and $20, according to location.

SENATOR DIXON.

Will Resign as Manager of Roosevelt Campaign.

SENATOR DIXON TO RESIGN

Rumor Says He Will Quit as Roosevelt Manager.

Washington, July 19.—There was gossip among senators here over a report given credence here that Senator Dixon of Montana, manager of Roosevelt's campaign for nomination, would not follow the colonel in the new party movement. Dixon is said to be strong as ever in his devotion to progressive principles, but he believes it best to establish these principles through a fight directed to the overthrow of standpat members of the Republican party.

There was a lack of agreement, it was stated, between Roosevelt and Dixon over the colonel's trip to Chicago, the pilgrimage having been made contrary to Dixon's judgment.

Information as it comes to the senate is that Roosevelt induced Dixon to remain in charge of the movement until the progressive convention is held Aug. 5 in Chicago.

HATCHET HURLED AT PREMIER ASQUITH

Attempt Made to Injure British Prime Minister.

Dublin, July 19.—The British prime minister received a vociferous popular welcome here. On his arrival he was met by Augustin Birrell, chief secretary for Ireland, the Nationalist leaders and the mayors of Dublin, Cork and other cities. A torchlight procession, with forty bands and thousands of lights, escorted the carriage to a hotel.

While the procession was passing Princess street, a woman threw a hatchet at the premier's carriage, but nobody was injured.

Suffragettes charted small boats at Kingstown, about seven miles from Dublin, with a view to making a demonstration on the arrival of the premier's boat, but were prevented from doing so by the vigilance of the authorities.

A serious affair, seemingly of suffragette origin, occurred, however, at the Dublin theater, where Mr. Asquith will speak. During an entertainment a blazing chair, apparently oil-soaked, was thrown from a box into the orchestra. The curtain of the box caught fire and the audience was thrown into a panic. Attendants extinguished the flames and order was restored. A woman who occupied the box made her escape from the theater.

It developed later that a second woman was in the box and aided in the incendiarism. In the confusion one of the women got away but the other was arrested. She is said to be an English suffragette.

JAMES M'NAMARA PUNISHED

Dynamiter in Solitary Confinement Because of Insubordination.

San Quentin, Cal., July 19.—As the result of insubordination James B. McNamara, confessed dynamiter of the Los Angeles Times building, is in the incorrigible ward on the top floor of the state prison here in solitary confinement.

Warden Hoyle sent him to "the solitary" because he refused to line up in the prison ward.

"McNamara is a bad actor," said Hoyle "and is mutinous at all times."

Adjourns in Tribute to Negro.

Mobile, Ala., July 19.—For the first time, it is said, in the history of Alabama, a court was adjourned here out of respect to the memory of a negro. Henry Kinney, once a slave, became janitor of the county court house here soon after he obtained his freedom. He died and the circuit court was ordered adjourned until after his funeral.

Canal Protest Presented.

Washington, July 19.—Great Britain's formal protest against the Panama canal bill, now in the senate, was presented to Secretary Knox by A. Mitchell Innes, charge of the British embassy. Secretary Knox will send it at once to President Taft, who probably will transmit it to congress with a special message.

THIS IS THE DAY OF INTERVIEWS

Time When the Politicians Get In the Newspapers.

WILSON TARIFF RECORD IN '82

Congressman Hill Has Democratic Nominee's Views Printed In the Record, but This Is Not Likely to Have Any Influence In the Election—Senator Nelson Urged to Run Again.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, July 19.—[Special.]—These are the days when the politician with the interview gets in his work. Take a newspaper that is friendly or supporting any one of the three candidates for president and you will find any number of interviews daily, showing that each section of the country is strong for the candidate. Here in Washington I noticed a column of interviews in one paper showing that different parts of the country were sure to support Mr. Taft. First came a New England man, who named each of the six states constituting that subdivision of our nation, and announced that every one would elect Taft electors. Then Joe Kealing, one of the busiest Taft men in the country and the head of the "outside steering committee" at Chicago, said that Indiana would go for Taft. A. M. Stevenson, the famous "Big Steve," the renowned heavyweight of Denver, was quoted as saying the whole west was favorable to Taft. You don't have to drop a nickel in the slot to get a political interview these days.

After Thirty Years.

Congressman Hill of Connecticut finally had printed in the Congressional Record the views of Woodrow Wilson on the tariff back in 1882. Probably a few people will read those views, but they will not make or lose votes for the Democratic candidate. A man's views thirty years ago will not operate against him now. More important are the views of Governor Wilson during the past few years, which are likely to figure quite prominently in the campaign. And yet it may be that the coming election will be settled upon issues outside of what any of the different candidates may have said or will say. It is likely to be a curious campaign.

Where the Pinch Comes.

"It's pretty hard," remarked one of the Democratic men in the house, referring to the late Democratic convention and speaking particularly of the sad expressions which daily haunt the faces of Speaker Clark and Minority Leader Underwood, "to think that those two men have been working for years, struggling in a minority, fighting the battles of Democracy which seemed almost hopeless, and then when there was a real reward in sight that neither of them could get it. Look at it any way you will and you can't help but feel that it is hard lines for them to see a man who has not been in politics three years run away with the grand prize when that prize in the opinion of every Democrat means the presidency of the United States."

They Want Nelson.

Men in Minnesota who want a Republican senator are urging Senator Nelson to announce that he will be a candidate for re-election. After eighteen years in the senate the sturdy old Norseman is anxious to retire to private life. He wants to go back to his farm in Minnesota and spend the remainder of his days in peace and quiet. He does not want to remain in the senate until he has become so old that he is feeble and useless. But the pressure upon him is very strong, for he is sure to win if he goes into the race.

Cranks and Autos.

Congressman Sims of Tennessee was urging the use of a certain kind of auto coach for passenger traffic in Washington which he said was not dangerous.

"I am glad you have found an automobile that is not dangerous," remarked Nick Longworth.

"The automobile was never dangerous," asserted Sims. "It is only the crank who runs it that makes it dangerous."

From a Roosevelt Delegate.

Congressman Madden was a Roosevelt delegate at Chicago. Speaking in the house recently on the matter of politics and high offices, he said: "We think the president ought not to mix in politics. A good many people believe he has not mixed much in politics in the last three or four years."

There was a burst of applause and laughter at this, for it has often been asserted that the president was not a politician.

"Who Is Going to Buy?"

Congressman Hill of Connecticut was making a speech and became deeply involved in politics. Many men fired questions at him.

"Tammany will sell you out," was one remark of Hill.

"They can't do it," shouted Sulzer of New York.

"Will not Bill Barnes sell out?" asked Akin of New York.

"Oh, you are beaten," retorted Hill. "You will be at home; you need not worry about that."

"Who is going to buy us?" inquired Garner of Texas. "That is what I want to know. You say Tammany is going to sell. Who is going to buy?"

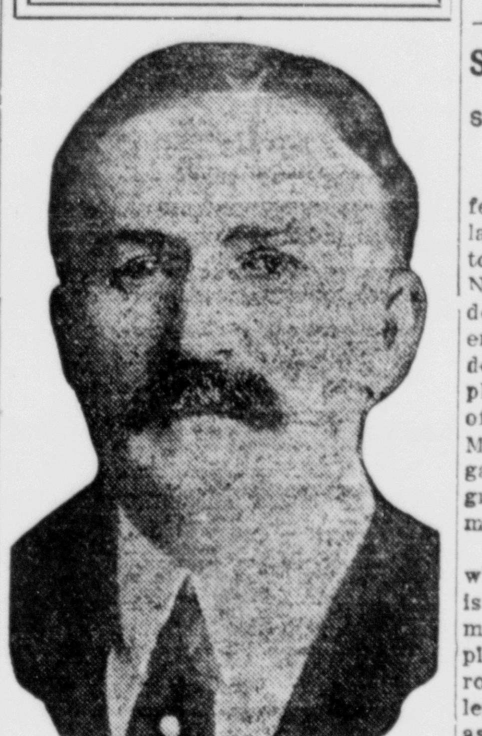
But Hill did not give the information.

Sure Cure.

Cora—I wish there was some way to make him stop buying expensive presents. Mae—You might marry him.

WILLIAM F. SHEEHAN.

Gave Testimony Regarding 1904 Democratic Campaign.



DEMOCRATS HAD A MILLION

So Said W. F. Sheehan Before Senate Committee.

Washington, July 19.—The Democratic campaign fund contained about $1,000,000 when Alton B. Parker ran for president in 1904, according to W. F. Sheehan of New York, who testified before the senate committee investigating campaign funds.

Mr. Sheehan then was chairman of the Democratic national executive committee. Money was sent by the committee, he said, to Maine, Colorado and Nebraska.

The witness declared the committee made a rule at the beginning of the campaign to accept no money from any trust. He believed no such contributions were made directly or indirectly.

SENATE WILL VOTE ON TARIFF BILLS

To Act on Wool, Excise and Sugar Measures.

Washington, July 19.—The senate has reached an agreement to vote up on the three-point Democratic tariff and finance bills late next week. The measures will be taken up as follows:

Wool tariff, Thursday; excise tax bill Friday; sugar tariff, Saturday.

One calendar day will be devoted to each measure; amendments will be permitted and a short debate allowed and the final vote on each one will be taken before the day's adjournment.

The agreement came as the result of a Democratic filibuster which for two days had held up the consideration of the big sundry civil appropriation bill, and which threatened to carry the session of congress beyond Sept 1. The Democrats abandoned their fillibuster after the agreement was formally accepted by the senate.

NAMES CAMPAIGN LEADERS

Wilson Names Mostly Men Who Fought for His Nomination.

Seagirt, N. J., July 19.—The Democratic campaign committee, which will have supreme charge of the presidential campaign, has been named by Governor Wilson. It consists of fourteen members, with William F. McCombs, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, as chairman.

The other members are: Robert S. Hudspeth of New Jersey, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, Willard Saulsbury of Delaware, Robert L. Ewing of Louisiana, A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, Will R. King of Oregon, all of whom are members of the national committee, and Senators Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, James A. O'Gorman of New York, and James A. Reed of Missouri, Representatives Daniel J. McGillicuddy of Maine, Albert S. Burleson of Texas and William G. McAdoo of New York city.

The appointment of a vice chairman was postponed. No action was taken on the appointment of a treasurer or finance committee.

Headquarters will be opened within a few days in Chicago and New York and a later date in some Western city as yet undecided on.

Norway's Long Day.

Summer time brings more than two months of continuous daylight at Wardburg, Norway, in the "Land of the Midnight Sun." That little village near the North cape has the longest day of any civilized community in the world, extending from May 21 to July 22, during which period the sun is at all times visible except when obscured by clouds.

Noted German Injured.

New York, July 19.—Dr. Hans Blum, professor of political economy in the Berlin university and a personal friend of the kaiser, is lying in Bellevue hospital here with a fractured skull and other injuries received shortly before midnight as he was running to catch a street car. He was unconscious when taken to the hospital and his recovery is doubtful.

ATTORNEY GIVES OUT STATEMENT

STEFFENS TELLS OF PACT

Says Agreement to Confess Was Made Before Franklin Arrest.

Los Angeles, July 19.—Lincoln Steffens, the writer, who was credited largely at the time with having much to do with the settlement of the McNamara cases, took the stand for the defense in the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow. He gave in minute detail the history of the McNamara pleas of guilty. As the witness told of the futile struggle to save John J. McNamara from the penitentiary so organized labor might be spared the disgrace of his conviction, Mr. Darrow made no attempt to hide his emotions.

Mr. Steffens' story accentuated what appeared now to be the crucial issue in the case, whether the agreement to have the McNamara brothers plead guilty was sanctioned by Darrow more than a week before the alleged bribery of Juror Lockwood, as asserted by the defense, or whether as contended by the prosecution, the negotiations virtually had lapsed because of the unwillingness of Darrow to allow John J. McNamara to plead guilty.

Sunday, Nov. 26, two days before Franklin's arrest for bribery, according to the witness, both the McNamara brothers had consented to plead guilty, although each did so without knowledge of the other.

IDAHO TIMBER TO ENGLAND

First Cargo for Export Leaves the Head of the Lakes.

Duluth, July 19.—The first cargo of hewed timber from Idaho left the head of the lakes on the steamer Simla and the barge Burma, English-owned vessels. The timber is for export. It will be taken first to Quebec and later shipped to Liverpool, England, where it will be sawed into lumber.

While this is the first of this sort of shipping for export from Duluth, it is thought that by another year shipments will be regular.

To Notify Chafin Aug. 10.

Waukesha, Wis., July 19.—Eugene W. Chafin of Arizona announced that he would be given the official notification of his candidacy for president of the United States on the Prohibition ticket in this city on the afternoon of Aug. 10. The notice will be given at 3 o'clock in Cutler park, and will be witnessed by hundreds of people from all over the country. Speeches will be made by Mr. Chafin and other prominent politicians. The address of notification will be given by Dr. C. H. Mead, permanent chairman of the Prohibition convention.

Owner of Car Used in Murder of Gambler Confesses.

ONE ADMITS HE DID DRIVING

According to Statement of the Police Shapiro Has Confessed That He Drove Auto Carrying Party That Murdered Rosenthal—Member of Party Said "Cops Are Fixed."

New York, July 19.—Aaron J. Levy, counsel for Louis Libby and William Shapiro, who are under arrest in connection with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, and are said to be owners of the "murder car," gave out a statement in regard to Shapiro's conduct at the time of the murder. Shapiro has admitted, according to the police, that he was the driver of the car.

"Shapiro," said Mr. Levy, "told me that after the shooting he was working with his motor and pretended it would not start. One of the party said:

"'Don't stall that engine. You had better get it started and be quick about it.'

"Shapiro still hesitated, and one of the parties said:

"'Go on you fool; get started; don't you know the cops are fixed and no one will bother us. It is a clean getaway.'"

It was reported about police headquarters that the arrest of a prominent police official soon would occur.

Important Arrests Expected Soon.

"The trail leads where I thought it did," remarked District Attorney Whitman. This was just after he had heard the statement of Jack Rose, the friend of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and the man who hired the gray automobile in which the slayers of Rosenthal drove to the spot where their victim met his fate early last Tuesday morning. Little by little the involved skein of motives and personalities behind the killing is being unraveled and it seems probable that other important arrests will follow speedily.

Rose's surrender and confession that he hired the "murder car," although declaring that he was not in it at the time of the shooting, were the big events of the day in the pursuit of the band who shot down the man who had accused members of the police with being in partnership with gamblers.

NAMED IN LAND FRAUD CASE

Witness Says Judge Hanford Was Involved.

Seattle, July 19.—New accusations against United States Judge Cornelius H. Hanford were brought out before the congressional investigation committee during the examination of H. L. Klock, a Seattle merchant.

Klock recounted a conversation he had with "a man named Sutton" in which the man said he "got next to a sale of state land that was going to be pulled off by Judge Hanford and his friends."

Klock said Sutton told him the land was worth $1,500 an acre and had been appraised at $10 an acre, advertised in an out-of-the-way paper and sold at an obscure place where those involved in the scheme could control the bidding.

TWENTY DIE IN CLOUDBURST

Seven Troughs, Small Town in Nevada, Wiped Out.

Reno, Nev., July 19.—Twenty lives were reported lost in a cloudburst that wiped out the small town of Seven Troughs, Nev.

From Lovelick, near Seven Troughs, came word that seven persons were known to be dead and that the hotel at Mazuma had been turned upside down by the rush of waters.

Communication by wire was badly crippled, and the roads were so furrowed that automobiles were obliged to make wide detours in seeking news.

Harvest Labor Scarce.

Duluth, July 19.—The annual call for harvest hands is sounding throughout the Northwest. This year labor is exceedingly scarce. As a result, officials of grain carrying railroads say they do not know where the harvest fields of Minnesota and the two Dakotas are to get anywhere near a sufficient supply of men. Every prospect points to bumper crops, with fewer men to handle them than ever before, it is declared. In some places cutting is now on, but the start generally will be in about two weeks.

Boy Robber Stabs Woman.

Marshalltown, Ia., July 19.—Mrs. George W. West, aged fifty-seven, wife of a suburban grocer, was severely wounded by a fifteen-year-old boy robber, who plunged a knife into her throat, while Mrs. West argued with him not to kill her, but to take what money there was in the cash drawer.

Rivers and Harbors Bill Passed.

Washington, July 19.—The rivers and harbors appropriation bill carrying about $33,000,000, including $6,000,000 for Mississippi river improvements, was finally passed by the senate when the conference report was adopted.

Postmaster General Hitchcock in his testimony before the congressional committee brings out the information that Frank Munsey is a large stockholder in the steel trust. Munsey is one of those most rampant for the third party move and as it is charged that the steel and harvester trust contributed $2,000,000 toward the recent campaign of the leader of this movement the question arises as to the part the common people will take in case it should be successful.

Life Without Microbes.

Microbes are not indispensable to all life if they are indispensable to any. The question has been definitely settled. A cage completely sterilized at 90 degrees was made and the openings of the cage closely stopped with cotton and protected from the outside by a hermetically closed metallic chamber. Such manipulations as were necessary in opening the cage were made by hands guarded by aseptic rubber cloth. Into such a sterilized cage three hens' eggs were placed after having been externally sterilized. The cage was fitted with a glass pavilion or chicken run, where the chickens could develop during their six weeks' sojourn in the cage. In the cage were sterilized air, pure water, sterilized sand and sterilized feed. The experiment showed that life does not depend upon microbes, but that the vital work of the organism is easy and natural when everything is sterilized.—Harper's.

BRITON WOULD RECLAIM THE GARDEN OF EDEN.

Sir William Willcocks' Plan Would Entail $30,000,000 Expenditure.

Plans for the reclamation of the site of the Biblical garden of Eden have been completed by Sir William Willcocks, who has estimated the cost of the undertaking at $30,000,000. Speaking before the Royal Geographical society in London, Sir William outlined his scheme. His theory is that the actual garden lies in the vast tract forming the delta of the Euphrates and Tigris and that these two rivers must be controlled by dikes and barrage.

"The Tigris," says Sir William, "is the more difficult problem. Provisionally I have suggested to the Turkish government to sacrifice the left bank of the river to the floods and to create a very massive canal and dikes along the right bank. On the other hand, an escape could be constructed.

"If we could overcome the objections of the Shammar Arabs we could utilize a salt pan southwest of Samara, in which, as we have discovered, the river Tarthar terminates. We should have to raise the level of the Tigris in flood by eight meters, and the two barrages and canal needed would cost $30,000,000.

"But there would be a splendid return. The value of every acre of land in the delta would be doubled; it would be a godsend to Bagdad and allow the Bagdad railway to traverse the cultivated land instead of the desert.

"The delta of the two rivers would be richer than the delta of the Nile and a safer place for the investment of capital. Indeed, I should say that, as the Egyptians are so eager to return to the protection of Turkey, England would make a good financial bargain to exchange Egypt for Babylonia.

"The first direct irrigation works to be carried out will be the Feluja and Hindie barrages on the Euphrates and the canals and drains dependent upon them. On the Tigris the canals to irrigate the country northwest of Bagdad will be taken off above the proposed barrages near Nimrod's dam, which are, I hope, to provide the escape into the Tarthar depression.

"The second barrage on the Tigris will be made at Koot, to convert the Hai branch of the river into a permanent canal. Farther down, at the juncture, regulating work, dikes and canals are proposed to reclaim the land from Basra to Khor Abdalla."

WYOMING SOON TO BE TRIED.

New Dreadnought to Be Flagship of Atlantic Fleet.

The new 26,000 ton Dreadnought Wyoming, the great all big gun battleship that is destined to be the flagship of the United States Atlantic fleet, will go to sea for her trials shortly and within the next two months, with her sister ship, the Arkansas, will be commissioned and assigned to the fleet under Admiral Osterhaus. The Arkansas takes the place of the Dreadnought Michigan in the first division, and the Wyoming supersedes the battleship Connecticut as the independent flagship of the fleet.

These two vessels, the largest and ried on any battleship ever built for the American navy, will add 52,000 tons of fighting strength to the navy, and each will carry twelve twelve-inch guns as their main batteries—two guns more of that type than were ever carried on any battleship ever built for the government. In addition to their powerful twelve inch batteries, each ship will carry a secondary battery of twenty-one five-inch guns and about a dozen other guns of the three inch, three pound and one pound types.

The Arkansas has already had her preliminary trials and, steaming over the Rockland (Me.) measured course, averaged a speed of over twenty-one knots an hour, which exceeds by a knot the speed called for in the builders' contract. Those in charge of the Wyoming during her trials will bend every effort to equal and to exceed if possible the record of the Arkansas.

The addition of the Arkansas and Wyoming will make eight vessels of the Dreadnought type in the Atlantic fleet. These eight vessels carry a total of eighty guns of the twelve inch type, every one of which can be fired simultaneously in either the starboard or port broadside. The total displacement of the Atlantic fleet Dreadnoughts when the Arkansas and Wyoming are added will be 167,650 tons. To man these eight Dreadnoughts 7,348 officers and men will be required.

CROSBY NEEDS ANOTHER SCHOOL

Trustees to be Selected and Question of Additional School to be Voted On

ELECTRICITY PUMPS WATER

Cuyuna Range Power Co. Supplies Current to Run the City Electric Pumping Station

Crosby, Minn., July 18—So fast is Crosby growing that additional school room is imperatively necessary. There are 250 pupils that have no room in the present school. There are also many pupils in Crosby Beach that must be provided for. On Saturday evening, July 20, occurs the annual school election and at that time the voters of the village will decide the question of building another school house. On Friday evening a caucus will be held at the school house for the purpose of nominating two school trustees.

Crosby's two pumps which raise the city water from the wells near Serpent lake and force the water into the big steel tank, are driven by electricity. The current is furnished by the Cuyuna Range Power company. Current of uniform voltage is supplied and the service of the power company is giving complete satisfaction.

HORSESHOES OF ROPE.

Invention That Is Coming Into General Use In Germany.

Owing to the rapid increase in the mileage of streets paved with asphalt and wood blocks and to the congestion of traffic in the large cities it was found necessary to afford greater safety for horses, to prevent their slipping and to enable them to come to a quick stop. This has been attained by fitting them with "rope" horseshoes. These shoes were first manufactured some twenty-five years ago, but it is only during the last decade that the industry has grown to large proportions.

Various forms and shapes of shoes are used. Some are open at the back, like an ordinary horseshoe. Others are closed, and very often, besides being closed, there is a bridge or crosspiece joining the two sides. When this is the case the bridge is constructed like the rest of the shoe, inclosing a tarred rope. There are usually eight nail holes in each shoe, and in order to strengthen the bottom, and especially to make the nail holes more secure, the walls of the groove are sometimes re-enforced by braces. The space in the center of the shoe is often covered over with various kinds of inserts to protect the frog from injury. The latest novelty, which has been adopted by the royal stables, is the insertion at the back of the shoe of a block of wood into which stiff bristles have been driven. This is an additional preventive against slipping. When the ground is covered with snow a special ice plate is inserted in its stead.

It is customary to use special nails with long heads in attaching the shoes to the hoof. When the long headed nails are used it is possible to drive them in and to extract them without taking out the rope. These nails, which are driven between the outer side of the groove and the tarred rope, also help to hold in the rope. The tarred rope wears down simultaneously with the rest of the shoe, and it is only on rare occasions that the rope must be withdrawn and new inserted. This change can be made without removing the shoe. The average life of a rope horseshoe is six to eight weeks.

The advantages and disadvantages of the rope shoes can be summarized as follows: Advantages—They are light and comfortable for the horse; they help to prevent slipping; they break the concussion and deaden the sound of the hoof. Disadvantages—The driving of the nails requires more care; the blacksmith must have in stock a larger quantity of shoes of various shapes and sizes; great care has to be taken in the preparation of rope horseshoes not to overheat the iron nor to hammer it when too cold, otherwise it will crack on the anvil.—Consular Report.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF BIBLE STUDENTS

Pastor Russell's Address at Glen Echo Park, Washington, D. C.

He Declares the Bible to Be the Only Center of Attraction and Standard of Faith—Four Thousand Representatives Present From All Parts.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Washington, D. C., July 14.—The International Bible Students Association closed a very successful eight-days' Convention at Glen Echo Park tonight. Approximately forty speakers have addressed the Convention. Pastor Russell was the principal speaker this afternoon. His text was, "But ye are come * * * to the General Assembly and Church of the First-born, which are written in Heaven."—Hebrews xii, 23.

The speaker declared that St. Paul points us back to the institution of the Jewish Law Covenant at Mt. Sinai and uses it as a picture or type of experiences of the Church to be expected at the Second Coming of Christ and the establishment of His glorious Kingdom.

St. Paul pictures the march of the Israelites from the Red Sea to Mt. Sinai, implying that some got to the mountain much in advance of the others, but waited there for the General Assembly. The Apostle points us back to the awful experiences connected with the inauguration of the Law Covenant—Mt. Sinai smoking, lightnings flashing from the cloud and thick darkness which enveloped the mountain, the earth trembling, the Voice of God heard, the people in fear.

All these things, said the Pastor, according to St. Paul, were foreshadowings of still more wonderful things to be expected in the near future in connection with the inauguration of the New Covenant. Many had misapprehended the Apostle's teaching in respect to the New Covenant and thought it already sealed and in operation. But not so. The Scriptures assure us that the work of Christ and the Church during this Age has been a preparatory one, without which the New Covenant could not go into effect.

A Time of Terrible Trouble.

Everywhere the Bible associates with the coming of Christ a great trouble upon the world and assures us that the faithful of the Church will be spared from it by their resurrection change. The plowshare of trouble will upset human pride and humble the world and make them glad to welcome the Messianic Kingdom then to be established for the purpose of bringing to Israel and to the world the long promised blessings of the New Covenant.

The introduction of this Kingdom St. Peter styles the Day-dawn. (II Peter i, 19.) He describes its work as most blessed, saying, "Times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord—He shall send forth Jesus Christ—whom the heavens must retain until the Times of Restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all His holy Prophets since the world began."—Acts iii, 19-21.

St. Paul's interpretation of the Mt. Sinai experiences would imply a "Day of Vengeance"—the very term which the Bible uses. Society will be so shaken and its experiences will be so dreadful that, like the Israelites of old, all will be ready to entreat for the Great Mediator—The Christ, Head and Body—Jesus and His Church in glory—to stand between them and the Almighty. It will be in response to this universal cry that the Messianic Kingdom will be established and by the New Covenant take over the control of the entire world of mankind, for whom, by the grace of God, Jesus Christ tasted death.—Hebrews ii, 9.

Terrible as the squaring of the world's accounts will be preparatory to the opening of the New Dispensation with a clean page, they are rational as well as Scriptural. Humanity will be able to look up to God and acknowledge His Wisdom and Justice, and then to thank Him for the loving provision of the Messianic Kingdom, under whose beneficient reign they may be helped back to full human perfection and to a world-wide Eden.

The Church In General Assembly.

We have greatly enjoyed, dear brethren, our Convention or Assembly. But what will it be to be there—in the General Assembly of the entire elect Church of God! There will be no sectarianism there, though there doubtless will be saints of God from every sect in that Convention in Glory! Let us carry with us a sense of the realities of the glorious promises of the Bible, which, we believe, are hastening to fulfilment.

Even now, on every hand, we see the evidences of social unrest; and the wonderful blessings of our day are being received by unthankful hearts with ingratitude, breeding discontent and presaging the awful anarchy which the Bible teaches us to expect. It is a time for faithfulness to God, to His Word, on the part of all who are of "the household of faith," of every nation and denomination. It is a time for the Bride to make herself ready for the Bridegroom.

"Watches" on Board Ship.

On board all ships a series of "watches" are established, so that work is shared equally among the sailors. To aid this object also the crews are divided into two divisions, starboard and port. A ship's day commences at noon, and there are seven watches. The watch which is on duty in the forenoon one day has the afternoon next day, and the men who have four hours' rest one night have eight hours the next. This is the reason for having "dog watches," which are made by dividing the hours between 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. into two watches.

TIGER PROOF HOMES.

Malay Houses, Frail and Flimsy, Sometimes Perch In Tree Tops.

The ordinary Malay house is built on posts from five to seven feet high, but one which I came across was perched high up in a tree. It was the home of a man, his wife and family, and they informed me that it was placed in this unusual situation so as to be out of the way of the numerous tigers which then infested the neighborhood.

As tigers have been known to jump eighteen feet in vertical height somewhere about twenty feet is considered to be the limit of safety. The Malayan house is a frail and flimsy structure of sticks tied together with rattan thatched with palm leaves and walled with plaited bamboo or, as in this case, with the bark of trees.

It is therefore an easy matter for a tiger with its great strength to break into a house and attack the inhabitants. Many instances of this have been recorded in Malaya. In one well known case a whole family were killed except one man, who, climbing up into the roof and thus escaping the notice of the tiger, was a horrified observer of the cruel mauling and ultimate slaughter and devouring of his relatives.—London Strand Magazine.

COMPANY AT BREAKFAST.

A Surprise Party That Startled a Bride In India.

"I was married in India," says a writer in the Contra Costa Gazette, "and rented a little house fourteen miles or so from any other habitation of white men. The morning my wife and I arrived the servants laid breakfast on the veranda overlooking the river. At the clatter of the plates there began to come down from the big tree that overshadowed the house and up the tree that grew in the ravine behind it, from the house roof itself, from everywhere, a multitude of solemn monkeys.

"They came up singly and in couples and in families and took their places without noise or fuss on the veranda and sat there like an audience waiting for an entertainment to begin. And when the breakfast was all laid and the monkeys were all seated I went in to call my wife.

"'Breakfast is ready, and they are all waiting!' I said.

"'Who are waiting?' she asked in dismay. 'I thought we were going to be alone, and I was just coming out in my dressing gown.'

"'Never mind,' I said. 'The people about here are not fashionably dressed. They wear pretty much the same things all the year round.'

"And so my wife came out. Imagine her astonishment. In the middle of the veranda stood our breakfast table, and all the rest of the space, as well as the railings and the steps, was covered with an immense company of monkeys, as grave as possible and as motionless and silent as if they were stuffed. Only their eyes kept blinking and their little round ears kept twitching. My wife laughed heartily—at which the monkeys only looked all the graver—and sat down.

"'Will they eat anything?' she asked.

"'Try them,' I said.

"So she picked up a biscuit and threw it among the company. Three hundred monkeys jumped into the air like one, and for an instant there was a riot that defies description. The next moment every monkey was sitting in its place as solemn as if it had never moved. Only their eyes winked and their ears twitched.

"My wife threw them another biscuit, and the riot broke out again. Then she threw them another and another and another. But at last we had given away all that we had to give and got up to go. The monkeys at once rose and, advancing gravely to the steps, walked down them in a solemn procession and dispersed for the day's occupations."

Relics of Pillories.

Though the pillory has been abolished, there are still to be found in various parts of rural England relics of this old time method of punishment. One of the most complete examples may be seen within a few miles of the metropolitan border. In the picturesque village of Roydon, Essex, not only are the old stocks and whipping post still preserved, but close beside them stands also the wooden "cage" in which the roysterer of bygone days was incarcerated. Is there another such interesting trio of punitive relics to be found elsewhere in England?—London Graphic.

The Water Fay

A Legend of the River Rhine

By F. A. MITCHEL

A tourist viewing the ruined castles on the Rhine bank from the boat that plies up and down that historic stream, just above Wiesbaden, will see a broken pile of stones which mark the former home of Baron Korner. The baron's wife was in her youth considered the most beautiful woman in all Germany. Indeed, so beautiful was she that persons came from a distance to have a look at her.

As was to have been expected, the lady became so vain that her beauty, instead of being a source of comfort to her husband, was a matter of regret. He never complimented his wife on her beauty; consequently she cared little for him, devoting herself to admirers who went into raptures over it. The baron naturally became very bitter on the subject of woman's beauty, and when the baroness presented him with a daughter, Hildegarde, since beauty is hereditary and the child would likely be a beautiful woman, he gave orders that no one should even tell Hildegarde that she was beautiful. He also destroyed all the mirrors in the castle and disposed of the jewelry and other woman's adornments that tended to cultivate vanity. Then he gave orders that no one should bring any of these things into his home on pain of being thrown into the donjon under the castle.

The baroness died when Hildegarde was but a few years old and long before the child could be conscious of her appearance. She grew up as beautiful as her mother and, never having seen her face, was unconscious of her attractive appearance. But she lived rather a lonely life, for her father admitted few visitors to the castle, and no one was supposed to enter without making a pledge not to give evidence of having noticed Hildegarde's beauty, nor was the girl ever permitted to leave the castle.

Baron Korner as he grew older and his daughter's splendid beauty grew more transcendent formed a plan when Hildegarde came to a marriageable age of marrying her to a husband who should keep up his policy with regard to her. Having no son, he selected a younger son of a neighboring baron to wed her and take his place at his death as lord of the domain. Carl Von Ehrenstein was the chosen man, but not before he had sworn a solemn oath to surround his wife with the same barriers to which she had been accustomed.

Soon after the celebration of the nuptials the baron was killed by a fall from his horse while hunting, and Carl Ehrenstein became the lord of the castle. He deeply loved his wife and was very proud of her beauty, but he had been thoroughly informed by the late baron of all he had suffered on account of her mother's vanity and was intent to prevent it in Hildegarde. But she was now twenty years old, and it was not so easy for her husband to keep her shut up in the castle as it had been for her father to imprison a child. No sooner had there come an end to the late baron's obsequies than Hildegarde began to evince a desire to see the world.

Now, Hildegarde's nurse when her young mistress emerged from childhood became her maid, and the young baron consulted with her as to taking his wife outside the castle and still keeping around her the safeguards to which she had been accustomed. The maid, Gretchen, thought that the baroness could be taken on a tour without seeing a reflection of her person. Mirrors were not so common in those days as now, and Gretchen promised to watch for them and guard against her mistress being brought face to face with one. So the baron yielded to his wife's persuasions and set out with her, attended by her maid to show her the world.

The young husband was in terror from the first. Every person who passed them started on seeing Hildegarde and looked at her rapturously.

"Why do these persons stare at me thus?" she asked.

"It is because, never having been out into the world, which is filled with wickedness," replied her husband, "your features show that the innocence to which you were born is still in you."

Hildegarde was pleased with this, but not satisfied. They were at the time passing through different scenes from those to which her vision had been limited, and she was delighted with them.

"Shall I become wicked now that I have left the castle?" she asked.

"Not if you remain with me and Gretchen and do not mingle with the throng."

Hildegarde meditated for some time over this and at last said:

"I don't care to be perfect. I think I shall risk being corrupted by mingling with a few persons."

The young baron had arranged to take his wife for their first stop to the home of Heinrich Reinheart, a friend of his living near Worms. He had confided to this person the plan on which his wife had been brought up and had secured the promise of the removal of all mirrors from the premises and that all persons there should refrain from appearing to notice the beautiful guest.

A few hours after their arrival at their stopping place, which was situated in the center of beautiful grounds, Hildegarde slipped away from her guardians and went out to walk by herself. On the peak where she had been born there was no water except the Rhine flowing far below. In Reinheart's place there was a very beautiful sheet of water. As soon as Hildegarde saw it she ran toward it, clapping her hands with delight. There was no breeze, and the surface was perfectly placid. The young wife was enraptured with the smoothness of it, surrounded as it was with verdure, which on the opposite side was reflected in it. She wondered if the brink on which she stood was thus reflected. Looking down into it, she saw the blue sky there and white clouds sailing slowly along. Bending, she saw her reflection gazing at her.

Instantly a look of admiration came upon the reflected features.

"Who are you down there, a water fay? Whoever you are, you are very beautiful."

No answer came, but Hildegarde noticed that the lips of the image moved while she herself was talking.

"You must be an immortal else you would give me some reply. Strange that you should live down there in the water. I have heard of mermaids, but there is nothing of the fish in your composition. You must be a human being, who instead of breathing air breathes water; but, though you can see me, you can't communicate with me. Therefore you must be a human being who has grown to my age and died. Oh, dear! I wonder what you are!"

She ran back to the house and called to her husband: "Oh, Carl! Do come and see the beautiful girl living in the under world."

The baron knit his brows. He feared that the secret was out—that she had seen her image. He went with her to the pond, she chattering on the way about the vision of loveliness she had seen and wondering if it would be there when she returned. Carl meanwhile feeling confident that she had seen herself was trying to invent a story that would satisfy her. When they reached the pond she ran ahead of him and bent over it.

"There she is!" she exclaimed joyfully. "Come and see her."

But Carl hung back. "I know whom you are looking at," he said, "a water fairy. Come away. She will contaminate you."

"No, no! She is as good as she is beautiful. I can see purity in every feature."

Should Carl lean over the water to see the fairy his own face would be reflected there, and his wife would recognize it at once. This would lead her to understand that the other reflection was her own.

"No, no, sweetheart," he said. "Should I look at her she might enthrall me. Not for the world would I risk being drawn away from you."

"Would she?" exclaimed the girl in a tone that betrayed both fright and disappointment. "Then it would be your fault. She would never tempt you."

"Come away. This is the Lorelei, who has come from the banks of the Rhine. You know how she lures boatmen to their death. She would draw me down into the water, and I could never return to you."

Hildegarde, fearful that her husband might be right, knit her brows and saw her image do the same.

"Ah," she said, "I see that you are evil, after all. You have lured me here that you may take my husband from me, and now that you see he is not to be tempted you frown. Goodby. You are beautiful, but you are evil."

With this she rejoined Carl and, putting her arm through his, returned with him to the house.

When again they set out on their journey Carl persuaded his wife that they must not go near any more water, for the fairy would be in any water they approached and he might see her before he could withdraw. And once seeing her he feared the worst. Hildegarde was quite sure the girl she had seen was the Lorelei of whom she had heard so much and was ready to avoid the waters in which she lived. And so fearful was she of losing her husband that she proposed they go back to the castle, where there was no danger.

This pleased the young husband, who was in constant terror lest the admiring glances of the persons they met would betray the secret of his wife's beauty.

So they returned to their home, where there were no mirrors, no sheets of water and where every one was trained to refrain from showing admiration for the beautiful baroness. Presently a little son came to take up her attention, and she did not again feel any desire to see the world, or, rather, she feared to leave the castle with her husband for fear the water fay would get him.

This worked in two ways—the baroness not only remained at home, but would not permit her husband to go even down to the Rhine. This kept him with his wife and his family and his retainers. When the physical beauty of his wife faded it left an expression of purity, of unconscious beauty of soul. Persons who had formerly come to see her as a marvel of bodily perfection now came to view a saint.

It was not till this time that the baroness discovered that she had been so hedged about that she did not know that she was the fairy she had seen in the water and that it was she who had already enthralled her husband. But by this time she and he and their children had become welded together in one loving family, and her past beauty was not a matter of regret to her.

Living on Rubber.

The rubber slug is one of the many pests of rubber plantations. It attacks the young trees and feeds on the juice oozing from the cuts. Doubt having been cast on the suggestion that any animal could subsist on rubber, a saucerful of juice was placed before some rubber slugs, which lapped it up like a cat lapping up milk. Scientists have come to the conclusion that this slug contains some rubber digesting ferment as a gastric juice.

MURKY GREEN PETROLEUM.

Processes by Which It Is Converted Into Refined Oil.

In its original state petroleum is of a murky green color. It is distilled in pans with great furnaces blazing beneath them, and as the vapors arise from the boiling liquid they are conveyed into pipes surrounded by cold water in which they are condensed.

The first vapors condense into naphtha and those produced by further heating give the burning oil. A very small percentage of the crude oil put into the pans or stills remains in the form of tar, which by another process is converted into paraffin and coke.

After distillation the refined oil is no longer green, but is as transparent as spring water and beautifully tinged with purples and blues. It is not yet ready for use, however, since it must be "washed." The fluid is emptied into a large circular tank in which it is treated with acids, these being poured in and mixed with it by means of powerful pressure from beneath.

When it has been well shaken it is allowed to settle, and the acids then separate from it and sink to the bottom of the tank, taking with them some of the tar that remained in the oil.

The acids are then removed and the oil is washed with salt water. Finally it is bleached, and it is then ready for the market.—Harper's Weekly.

WHERE BRAINERD LOST ADVERTISING

F. B. Lynch, it is Said, Has Refused to Manage Woodrow Wilson's Western Campaign

HAS COTTAGE ON GULL LAKE

Had he Accepted, Some of His Statements Would Have Been Made Public Through Brainerd

Brainerd and Gull Lake have lost a lot of advertising this political season and all because Fred B. Lynch, who has a summer home at Gull Lake, has refused to accept the management of Woodrow Wilson's western campaign. True, he was to have campaign headquarters at Chicago, but that would not prevent him from visiting his summer home every week or so. Had he accepted, there would have emanated from Brainerd and Gull Lake many statements from Mr. Lynch, bearing on the coming democratic campaign and the two places would have been in the limelight like second Sea Girts, Oyster Bays, etc.

Mr. Lynch, according to the Duluth Herald, refused to accept the position of western manager and suggested Martin J. Wade for that position. Mr. Lynch has returned from Chicago, where he attended the meeting of the national committee and later went to Indianapolis where he called on Governor Marshall, the candidate for vice president. Conditions, he believes, point to a victory for the democratic ticket. He thinks the third party movement improves Wilson's chances.

Obituary

Mrs. Elvira M. Draper, who died last Thursday at her home in Daggett Brook, has been a resident of this county for the past twenty-two years. With her husband, Philo W. Draper, she settled on a homestead in the days when there were no developed roads throughout the county, when the getting of supplies from the town of Brainerd and the hauling of produce to market was a matter of great exertion. In summer and spring the undrained marshes and meadows were more or less uncertain and dangerous. Only in the winter when the ground was frozen were the roads entirely safe.

Under these trying conditions of a new country she did her part to building up a home in the wilderness. Worn with the stress and toil of the years of the pioneer she passed from this life in her seventy-eighth year.

She was born in Sheldon, Vermont, September 15, 1834. She moved to Minnesota in 1865. Her husband, P. W. Draper, survives her, also three daughters. Mrs. Luella Merril, of Clearwater; Mrs. Bert Bentley, of this city, and Mrs. John Scribner, of Daggett Brook. Fourteen grand children, and eight great-grand children are also among those who mourn for her.

She was buried Thursday afternoon in the cemetery of Daggett Brook. W. J. Lowrie, pastor of the Presbyterian church conducted the burial services. Amid the pines of this beautiful burying ground she was laid to rest while many of her children stood around in reverent sorrow.

Have Half Enough Signers

Peter Newman, manager of the Little Falls ball club, spent Thursday forenoon in circulating a petition for signers to go to Brainerd on a special to attend the ball game between the locals and the up river aggregation. More than half enough signers were gotten and it is probable that the special will be secured. The round trip fare costs $1.85 and the train would leave here about noon Sunday and return in the evening.

Stoll's position at second base will be taken by Eddie Berg, who will be brought in from the outfield to fill the position. Kidder will be in uniform at the game and may be used in the outfield.—Little Falls Transcript.

NEW COUNTY ATLAS

To Show Every Township and the Ownership of Parcels of Land, Compiled by James Lake

James Lake, of the George A. Ogle engraving and publishing company of Chicago, is in the city getting real estate and business men, professional men and others to subscribe for an atlas which he is compiling of this county. If sufficient patronage is obtained, the map will be published. It will show each township in detail, giving the ownership of parcels of land.

The map of the county will show the congressional or government townships and ranges, with numbers; civil and organized townships, by colors, with names; location of cities and villages, railroads, rivers, lakes and postoffices with names.

The township plans of every township in the county will show sections, roads, railroads, rivers, creeks, lakes, ponds, churches, cemeteries, schools, mills, postoffices, etc; the size and shape of tracts of land and farms, owners' names, number of acres they contain, with location of dwellings.

The plats of every city, town and village will show the sreets, lots and blocks, with names and numbers. These plats will be engraved on a scale that will plainly show the lines, boundaries and numbers, and they will be colored by additions.

The atlas is something that our county is badly in need of and should get the hearty support of every citizen in the county, as this is the finest opporunity the county has had to obtain a work that means so much to every one. 1d-1w
